- 1. WORK SESSION
- 1-1. Biennial Budget Covering Fiscal Years 2019-20 to 2020-21 – City Council Work Session

Staff recommendation: that the Council receive a presentation of the proposed biennial operating budget and provide any direction to staff regarding the proposed budget for final review and approval by the Council on June 17, 2019

Finance Director Heather Rowden presented the staff report. All monies used to further Albany's mission are deposited into the City's General Fund. All other monies are deposited into Special Revenue Funds. Most Special Revenue Funds relate to capital planning. The City receives revenues from property taxes, sales taxes, franchise and other taxes, charges for services, and other sources. The top ten City taxpayers provide approximately one-quarter of City revenues. Franchise and other taxes are composed of a franchise tax on electric, gas, garbage and cable use; the utility users tax on electric, gas, and telephone use; a property transfer tax; a race track tax; and a transient occupancy tax (hotel). Other revenue is composed of rents and leases, donations/sponsorships, insurance claim proceeds, reimbursements, and miscellaneous revenues. In prior years, the budgeted amount of tax revenues has been higher than the actual amount, and the budgeted amount of investment earnings has been lower than the actual amount. Therefore, Finance Director Rowden will adjust the budgeted amounts for tax revenues and investment earnings to more realistic amounts. Salaries and benefits comprise 75 percent of City expenses. Expenses in Public Safety and Public Works comprise 61 percent of City expenses. Staff proposes adding a Management Analyst position in Public Works, combining two part-time Recreation Coordinator II positions into one full-time position, and reclassifying an Office Associate as a Community Development Assistant. Expenses for Disaster Preparation and Recovery will be charged to risk management rather than the Fire Department. Staff is exploring revenue diversification such as enforcement of transient occupancy taxes and updating transfer taxes; developing financial policies to guide the City; preparing the capital budget, monitoring the economy for a recession; monitoring pension costs; and cataloging and planning asset replacement.

The following person spoke: Margie Marks.

A summary of the comments is as follows: inquiries regarding the City providing blood pressure checks and podiatry services for seniors at the Senior Center.

Finance Director Rowden advised that expenses for those services would be categorized as contract/professional services under other expenses for the youth and senior services division of the Recreation Department.

City Manager Nicole Almaguer reported funds have been budgeted for the services, and staff is searching for service providers.

A summary of Council comments is as follows: hopes that adjustments to the accounting process are complete; concern about pension expenses and the cost of replacing aging infrastructure.
